The idea of the American West has always been associated with opportunity and optimism. NewWest Community Capital is a nonprofit loan fund dedicated to providing economic opportunity throughout the western United States. We do this by providing financing for affordable housing and community facilities in places where hope is too often in short supply.

From the construction of new housing and new schools to the creation of new jobs and a sustainable way of life, our mission is to provide the financial resources people need to thrive. The reason we exist is to increase access to capital for organizations working to build a more just and equitable society.
